The following estimates are based on reports received by the State Board from its corps of regular township correspondents and fairly represents the condition of crops and stock December 1st, 1886. Hogs-Marketed compared with the SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR total number fed, 54 per cent. See that you get the genuine with red "Z" on front of Wrapper. Prepared only by J. H. ZEILIN & CO., Sole Proprietors, Philadelphie, Pa. PRICE, $1.00. In the southern and western portion of the State, especially the corn regions. there is a marked decrease in acres of wheat sown, occasioned by the corn being badly blown down and not cut up and shocked to make ready for wheat. In the grass regions of the State, where much of the pasture was killed by the drouth and the grub worm and where fall seeding for timothy falled, wheat has been sown and repeated, thus increasing the acreage corresponding to the loss in the corn districts, so that, on the whole, the wheat acreage for the State is estimated as very slightly increased over last year. The condition of the wheat plant is a little below a full average. In some parts it is small and tender, but on the whole generally healthy and goes into winter in good condition.

Of other crops there is nothing special to report, except that given in the figures and in former reports.

The condition of live stock, except hogs, is generally good. The low average condition (90 per cent.) is due almost wholly to cholera among hogs, the disease prevailing in twenty-three counties of the State. In some of the more important hog growing districts the loss is estimated as high as 50 per cent.

By a law passed at the last session the General Assembly, the printing for the State Board of Agriculture, crop reports, etc., is done at the printing department of the Deaf and Dumb Asythe department is unable to promptly execute the crop report work. As an instance, the crop report for Octeber 1st, is still in the hands of the printer. The value of crop reports depends upon prompt distribution, therefore pamphlet edition will be attempted for the present report, but instead, this summary is sent, as a matter of news, to the press of the State, as the best and safest means of promptly placing the information before the farmers and others interested.

A FEW LINES

From a Highlander Visited Kansas.

And Who Has Something to Say About Malaria, Bunions and Prohibition.

As Well As to Make a Few Remarks On the Ever-Important Sub-ject of Politics.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 28th, 1880. EDITOR NEWS-HERALD-I have passed a week's vacation in Kansas, and have it. I saw hedge fences completely covseen a little of the great State where a person cannot get whisky unless he goes for miles and miles and see nothing but seen a little of the great State where a to a druggist and says he is threatened with malaria; and he doesn't even have times the farm houses are made so poorto tell the druggist that much. I do not ly that a Kansas cyclone would carry want my Sinking Spring friends to think them away. I have read many Kansas that I called on a druggist for the purpose of getting a malaria cure, for the air of Kansas is quite salubrious, yet in looking over the book of applications is looking over the book of applications in the largest drug store in Garden City I was surprised to see the amount of malaria which existed in that charming town. The law especially provides that no liquor shall be consumed in the stores where it is sold. What is the obvious effect of this law as it is at present working in the town of Garden City? There are eight drug stores in Garden City-that is one to every four hundred inhabitants-under the ordinary estimates of population, about City druggist is like the average saloon-keeper you have in Highland county, probably the only difference between them is that the Highland county saloonkeeper is more intelligent and does s more respectable business than that of the Western druggist. While I do not take sides against prohibition I can not see why the Prohibitionist always refers to the great State of Kansas as where no one sells the nasty stuff. Why, I know a minister of this city who in a recent lecture on prohibition and referring to Kansas said: "The law provides that any licensed druggist may keep all kinds of malt and spirituous liquors in stock." These liquors may be sold in any quantity demanded by customers. The method of sale is this: The druggist keeps : blank book or a book with blank applications and the customer fills out one of these applications, giving his name and ease twice in the same day, but in his one application he can obtain a sufficient amount of wine, whisky or beer to cope with any physical ill that "flesh is heir to." If a person calls on him for a gallon of Bourbon for bunions the druggist would not declare that whisky was not ceive our right to vote? would not declare that whisky was not 8. Of what is the Electoral College a specific for those troublesome visitors. So now, my dear Sinking Spring converts to the Prohibition party, if you ever are troubled in your sleep (where prohibition reigns) by a gnawing in your breast set a trap for it, and if the trap doesn't catch it go to the old reliable druggist and fill out a blank application The October report, when out, will contain the analysis of commercial fertilizers sold in Ohio, and will be sent on application.

Coward as Well, I commenced to tell about my visit and trip through Kansas, so that any of my friends that have heard such glowing words of sunny Kansas will know whether the papers they have received did it justice or not. To those who have never had any experience in hallding, or booming as it is usual-1. What is grammar?
2. Frame a sentence containing a participle having the construction of an adjective and a participlal adjective.
3. Some verbs are used transitively or intransitively. Illustrate by example.
4. Write a sentence containing an objective clause, some part of which is modified by a third class element.
5. What are elements of the sentence? Define first, second, and third-class elements.
6. Name two distinctions between finits verbs and participles.
7. When is a verb in the singular number? When in the plural?
8. Parse the italicized words: Liberty was theirs as men: without it they did not esteem themselves as men.
9. Parse the italicized words: I know him to be a sailor.
10. Analyze by diagram or otherwise town building, or booming as it is usualmore healthful location and better soil.
Strangers on the streets in Garden City are accosted with "Stranger, have you now him to be a sailor.

10. Analyze by diagram or otherwise the following:

"Thou say'st his sports were hindered by thy brawis;

Sweet recreation barr'd, what doth ensue, But moody and dull melancholy Kinsman to comfortless and grim despair?"

More leadthful location and better soil.

Strangers on the streets in Garden City are accested with "Stranger, have you located; want town property or land? Come up to my office." Now I didn't go to buy land but merely to see the country and I said that I was simply on go to buy land but merely to see the country and I said that I was simply on country and I said that I was simply on a prospecting tour when the agent accested me. Well, he took me up to the Land Office and turned me over to the firm of which he was a drummer (or runtler, as they are called). The agents were very polite in showing me their charts, etc. Of course there was no land quite as good as that in the county in which the firm had become interested; no spot with so many natural advantages; no town so sure to become the future county seat; and as for railroads they were heading for them from every direction. If, however, the company locating its town failed to hit the exact geographical center of the county it invariably invites a county sent, as in Syracuse and Kendall in Hamilton county and Frisco and Cormada in Wighita county. I spent two days traveling through the country and I really was so homesick that I thought to myself "if I ever get out of this barren desert I will never want a second visit."

It is a very common occurrence to be caught in a sand gale, and if you wonder what a sand gale means come out and visit southwestern Kansas. Let a sheet of sand strike you and you will think western life is not such a sweet and comfortable life as the western papers picture one vast prairie before you, and some-they are not as I imagined them. Well, I have given rather a brief description about Kansas' climate, etc., for I would rather talk politics any day than talk about the "Sandy Desert of Kansas," and hoping that my Prohibition friends will read up a little before they claim Kansas as their own, I promise to be with them when they can convince me that its better to vote with them; help elect a Democrat President and help to get the President to appoint rebels instead of Union men. But until they convince me that this is the best policy I shall stick to the grand old Republican party though nothing be left but the tail, should that time ever come. (But it never will) Hoping none of my friends will think I am too bitter in my denunciation of the party which has only a weak show of existence, I will close this letter and at some future time write them a letter of condolence.

Rheumatism

We doubt if there is, or can be, a specific remedy for rheumatism; but thousands who have suffered its pains have been greatly benefited by Hood's Barsaparilla. If you have falled to find relief, try this great remedy. "I was afflicted with rheumatism twenty years. Previous to 1883 I found no relief, but grew worse, and at one time was almost help-less. Hood's Barsaparilla did me more good than all the other medicine I ever had." H. T. Barcow, Shirley Village, Mass.

"I had rheumatism three years, and got no relief till I took Hood's Sarsaparills. It has done great things for me. I recommend it to others." LEWIS BURBANE, Biddeford, Mc.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by Hood's Sarsaparilla is characterized by three peculiarities: 1st, the combination of remedial agents; 2d, the proportion; 3d, the process of securing the active medicinal qualities. The result is a medicine of unusual strength, effecting cures hitherto unknown. Send for book containing additional evidence. "Hood's Barsaparilla tones up my system, purifies my blood, sharpens my appetite, and seems to make me over." J. P. THOMFSON, Begister of Deeds, Lowell, Mass.
